

COUNTY JAILBREAK IS NIPPED

25-FOOT STAGE LOOMS HERE AS RIVER RISES

Ohio's Rampage Caused By Rain and Melting Snow.

NO FLOOD ALARM

Other Streams in State Also Are Swollen.

With the Ohio river rising six inches an hour today, as a result of recent rains and melting snow, a 25-foot stage is expected here by tomorrow.

35 KNOWN DEAD IN STORM ZONE

A series of tornadoes, cutting across the southern part of the county yesterday, claimed a known toll of 35 dead, scores injured, and an untold property damage.

The greatest damage was at Duncan, Miss., where early today 21 bodies had been recovered from the debris that covered the stricken waterless and lightless city, patrolled by militiamen.

The twister struck two other towns in Mississippi. At Alligator, six miles away, two persons were killed and five injured. At Marks, Miss., in the same area, two other lives were claimed.

Two persons were killed at Van, Ark., two at Grand Prairie, Tex., and two at Cooper, Tex., by twisters earlier in the day.

On a plantation near Darling, Miss., two unidentified Negroes were killed. Two others were crushed to death near Dewitt, Ark., when their farm home was demolished.

Pittsburgh Predicts 23 Feet.

Employees at Dam No. 8 were advised from Pittsburgh that 23 feet of water was expected at the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. This would mean a stage of 25 feet in East Liverpool, approximately eight feet under the flood mark. The stage was 17.8 feet here at noon today.

Snow and ice from the Allegheny mountains were passing here today. Beaver creek, Yellow creek and other streams emptying into the river were running full.

Middle supports of the wooden Lincoln highway detour bridge over Beaver creek, on the outskirts of Lisbon, were washed out during the night, the span sagging in the center.

WISELY congress revokes its own decision and provides money for necessary work in Nicaragua by United States marines.

This country, by treaty with Nicaragua, has acquired the right to build a Pacific to Atlantic canal, via the Nicaragua route.

CERTAIN gentlemen of Nicaragua, with big hats but small brains, do not want the canal built. This country and the whole world's shipping need the canal.

Congressmen fussing about Mr. Sandino, Nicaragua revolutionist, and sympathizing with his fondness for shooting American marines, represent their constituents poorly.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE THOUSAND automobiles were built in this country last week, twice as many as were built in the same week last year, when Ford was not producing.

An average of 20,000 automobile is a day, trucks and tractors included, in a marvelous record. "Where do they go?" is asked.

They go to replace old cars and supply new ones to the growing army of prosperity and to the increasing number of "two and three-car families." If every automobile running lasted five years, replacements alone would call for 5,000,000 new cars a year.

THE Japanese educated classes no longer believe that their Mikado is cousin to the sun and moon. But they are touchy about his importance and object to signing the Kellogg peace pact, which uses the words "in the name of the people."

These words Japanese will not sign, because they make it appear that the Japanese people, not the Mikado, rule Japan.

COL. DONOVAN WILL BE NAMED WAR SECRETARY

New York Man Accepts Place in Cabinet.

VISITS HOOVER

Constitutional Dry to Be Chosen Attorney General.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Col. William J. Donovan of New York, now assistant attorney general, is to be secretary of war in the Hoover cabinet.

The post has been offered him and he has accepted, it was learned authoritatively today.

This automatically ends all speculation concerning Col. Donovan for the attorney generalship and leaves President-elect Hoover free to continue his quest of a head for the department of justice who is "a constitutional dry."

Summoned to Capital.
Col. Donovan returned to Washington unexpectedly yesterday from New Mexico, where he has been some weeks acting as the president's representative at the seven-states conference on the Colorado river dispute. He was summoned to the capital by Mr. Hoover.

It is understood that Mr. Hoover candidly informed Col. Donovan that he is determined upon the appointment of an attorney general who can be classed unquestionably as a constitutional dry, and that such being the case he was unable to offer him the post. Donovan, while personally dry, is not an admirer of the Volstead law. He comes from that wing of New York Republicans that has been classed as wet.

Prohibition Enforcement Change.
The Hoover plan is to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice, and (Continued on page eight, Col. four)

THREE-TRACK RAIL SYSTEM OUTLINED HERE

Railroad Officials, Councilmen, Shippers Confer.

WORK IS RUSHED

Right of Way at Foot of Broadway Needed.

Completion of a three-track system through East Liverpool, proposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was discussed at a conference among railroad officials, city councilmen and 15 shippers in the Potters' club, Fourth and Market streets, last night. The system is now practically completed east of the C. C. Thompson Pottery company's plant. The railroad company is seeking permission from the city to complete this track from the S. C. Williams company's plant, near the foot of Jefferson street, to the Thompson pottery.

Railroad company officials say city property at the foot of Broadway is needed for the job. The company agreed to construct a retaining wall along the river bank to support the River road, which would be moved toward the river, to make room for the new track.

Silent on Overhead Crossing.
Councilmen suggested that the railroad company join in the construction of an overhead crossing at Broadway in return for the third track right of way, but company officials declined to commit themselves on the proposal. The railroad representatives told councilmen that an average of 80 freight trains pass over the local division every 24 hours and that this traffic in all probability, will be increased.

Estimated cost of the overhead crossing has been placed by city engineers at $150,000, of which the railroad company would be asked to contribute 65 per cent and the city 35 per cent. Upon this basis the railroad company would pay $96,500 and the city $53,500.

If the railroad company agrees to eliminate the Broadway grade crossing, the city will co-operate in the elimination of the Mulberry street crossing in East End, members of council indicated today. Council is now considering a new "short cut" be-

ATTAIN HEALTH SEAL QUOTA IN CITY CAMPAIGN

Club Women Report Final Contribution Of $185.

COLECT $2,151

Eighty-five Per Cent Retained for Home Service.

As the result of an $185 contribution received on Washington's birthday, the City Federation of Women's clubs in charge of the Christmas health seal campaign exceeded the city's quota of 10 seals per capita in 1928 campaign, it was announced today.

Collections amounted to $2,151.86, or $11.86 in excess of the $2,140 quota. In the 1927 campaign $2,145 was collected.

East Liverpool will retain 85 per cent, or $1,829.98, for home service. The remainder, $322.78, has been sent to the state and national organizations. The usual divisions of health seal funds is 80 per cent for local service and 20 per cent for the state and national organizations, but because of the fine showing of the local committee an additional five per cent was allowed.

Children in the public and parochial schools collected $88.21, compared with $86.11 in 1927. Success of the campaign here was due in a large measure to the work of the school children, Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, health seal chairman, said.

Framed Bonds for Schools.
To each school with sales of $25, $50 or $100, a framed health seal bond was given by the health seal committee.

During 1928 the local health seal organization contributed $765 toward the salary of the public health nurse and also about $500 for milk for undernourished children and tuberculosis patients. The remainder was (Continued on page eight, Col. six)

VOTE IN POLL TO LIST YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Frederic J. Haskin Calls For Review Reader Ballots.

SEND IN CHOICE

Kipling, Service, Riley, Field, McCrae, Kilmer In Race.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.
Director, Favorite Poetry Poll.
Before completing arrangements for the leading daily newspapers of this country to conduct the popular poll on the question "What is Your Favorite Poem?" I asked a good many people personally that question. Their answer was the same that occurred to many readers of the East Liverpool Review when they read the first announcement of the poll.

"I haven't any favorite poem." Some people named a poem right off as their choice. Many said they had no favorite. But almost everyone, after thinking about it for a few minutes, decided that after all he did have a favorite poem, one which had always especially appealed to him. Possibly he had not thought of it for a long while. Sometimes he had difficulty recalling the correct name of the poem, or the name of the author. Almost invariably, however, he did recall the time and circumstances of reading it.

Only Certain Poems Live.

The answers of these personal acquaintances, when they did find the answer in their memory, were extremely diversified. Hardly any two named the same poem. And by own experience in answering inquiries which have come to me about poetry in the years I have been directing a great information bureau for newspaper readers has been just as diversified. Poems have their times and (Continued on page eight, Col. three)

PLOT REVEALED AS GAS BANDIT IS SENTENCED

William Mullen Gets 12 to 25 Years for Holdups.

BARLOW ON JOB

James Kelly Also Named in Lisbon Plot.

An attempted jail delivery, in which at least two prisoners are said to have been implicated, was revealed today when Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court, Lisbon, sentenced William Mullen, Philadelphia, convicted of two hold-ups of the Standard Oil company's filling station in Broadway, to serve from 12 to 15 years in the state penitentiary.

Kelly Goes to Prison.
Two years were added to Mullen's sentence, Judge Lones said, for his alleged part in the plot to assist James Kelly, alias John Barlow, to escape from the county jail Sunday night. An iron bar, a case knife and a rag string, said to have been taken from Mullen, were introduced in court by Sheriff Barlow who frustrated the jailbreak.

Kelly, who was sentenced to serve from 15 to 25 years in the penitentiary for his part in the hold-up of the Standard Oil company's West Eighth street station, was taken to the penitentiary at Columbus yesterday afternoon in custody of Deputy Sheriffs Gomer Lewis and George Harroff.

Mellinger Sentenced.
Mullen, Sheriff Barlow reported, had used the iron pipe to punch holes in the ceiling of his cell over which was the cell occupied by Kelly. Bits of plaster fell to the floor, attracting the attention of the sheriff. The sheriff also found footprints in the snow outside the jail beneath the cell occupied by Kelly, indicating outside aid in the plot.

Walter Mellinger, Salem, who was jointly indicted with George McCave for breaking and entering in connection with the looting of two Salem warehouses, was sentenced to serve from three to 15 years in the penitentiary by Judge Lones today. Mellinger was a state witness in the case against McCave who is also under a sentence of from three to 15 years.

HOPE ABANDONED, BUT NEW KONJOLA BROUGHT HEALTH

For Six Years Ailments Baffled And Defied All Efforts For Relief—Then Came New Medicine.

MR. E. C. CRAMER. "I was about to abandon hope of ever getting rid of constipation and indigestion, when I discovered in Konjola the medicine I should have had six years ago when my trouble started," said Mrs. E. C. Cramer, West Austintown, a short distance from Youngstown, Ohio.

"Before I realized what was happening my stomach was totally out of order. Constipation I could not get rid of except temporarily. Whatever I ate caused intense pain—so bad that, at times, I thought it would stop my heart. I could not sleep, became terribly nervous and was losing steadily in weight and strength. All I got from the medicines I tried was to become worse.

"But Konjola surely proved the victor in my case. Six bottles of this medicine completely restored my health. Konjola removed the causes of my trouble, then my stomach improved rapidly. My appetite increased and today, after six weeks of Konjola, I am better than I was six years ago. No recommendation of mine could do Konjola justice. I can understand why it is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

Konjola is sold in E. Liverpool, O., at Carnahan drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Abandon Evil Practices, Rev. W. R. McKinney Urges.

HITS DISHONESTY

Shun Worship of Golden Calf, Warns United Brethren.

"You can not have the love of God and the hope of heaven while continuing in evil practices," asserted the Rev. W. R. McKinney, pastor, at the revival service in the church of the United Brethren at LaCrosse last night. His subject was "Separation from the World."

"You must say goodbye to drunkenness, falsehood, dishonesty, cheating and separate yourselves from the world's pride, its ambitions and every honor except that that can be made helpful to the kingdom of Christ and God."

"We must separate ourselves from the passing fashions and vain shows of the world. Just how Christians can wear the fashionable dresses of today and remain a Christian I can not answer or understand.

"We must shun the worship of the gold calf. How can we join hands with men who are carried away with the passion for gain for the love of money is the root of all evil?"

Separate from World.

He indicated that what is meant by the world is not the natural world such as the hills, valleys, rivers and plains which are ideal and made for the beneficent use of mankind. "What is meant is the spirit of the world, what God meant for it to be. You are to be in the world but not of it in that you will not do that which causes man to lower the Godly standard. You are to take part in the business of the world provided you can do it honestly and lawfully."

That coming out of the world means divorcing oneself from selfish politics was also declared by him. He declared that during the last presidential campaign a recipe for the making of beer was sent to him by a politician. He said this man in the same letter spoke of his good work. "But I did not and do not want to go into the beer business," he said, "for I am dry and dry to stay. Let us not wink at the glass, but kick at it."

"The ruling spirit of the world is the spirit of selfishness. The spirit of God is the spirit of self-denial, which is the spirit of love. We must separate ourselves from selfishness."

Paulistic Assertion Discussed.

"Out of all of the spirit of selfishness have grown all of the strife, contention and wars which have transformed this beautiful world into a wretched disorder. The fault is within, not the world. God is good. As such He has showered riches on all nations. They have enough and to spare. But selfishness has made sorrow of it all, that no heart can tell.

When you sleep on a Rome De Luxe bedspring the spine is straight and natural; the body is fully relaxed

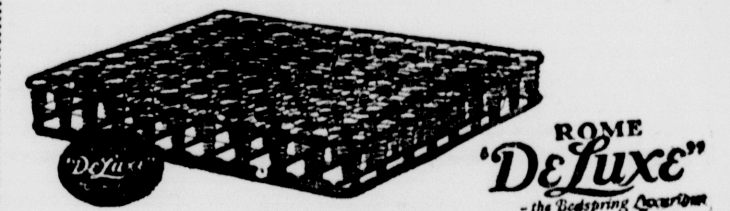

MOST people sleep with the spine curved, never realizing the harmful results of the unnatural position they have become accustomed to.

This strained position is impossible when you sleep on a De Luxe spring. Every coil in a De Luxe moves independently of all other coils, yielding to the pressure of hips and shoulders, yet rising to relieve all strain on the vital organs between. The spine lies naturally, straight and free from strain. Nerves and muscles are fully relaxed... refreshing sleep comes quickly.

Enjoy this new deep sleep right now. We will gladly bring a Rome De Luxe bedspring to your home for a trial. Phone us today for details, and let us give you a copy of Dr. Royal S. Copeland's interesting booklet, "How Better Sleep Builds Better Health."

Senator Carpenter's Death

The twentieth-twenty-second senatorial district, composed of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont and Harrison counties, today mourns the death of State Senator Harry M. Carpenter, of Steubenville, who succumbed suddenly in Columbus from an attack of influenza.

The Ohio legislature, one of the most distinguished members of which was Mr. Carpenter, will be represented at the funeral services to be held in the late senator's home tomorrow afternoon. Both houses of the general assembly have adjourned over Wednesday out of respect to his memory. Resolution expressing the sorrow of the assembly was adopted last night.

Senator Carpenter, whose friends were legion in East Liverpool and Columbiana county, was rounding out his twelfth year in the capitol. He had served in the house in the eighty-third and eighty-fourth assemblies and since then had been a member of the senate. Although but 59 years of age, Senator Carpenter, who had reached the peak of his legislative career, had tentatively planned to retire at the end of the session of the eighty-eighth assembly.

The district's member of the upper branch of the legislature was recognized as one of its ablest men. One of the most important measures on the calendar at this session is the Pence bill repealing carrying his name. On three occasions he had been chairman of the all-important finance committee, once in the house and twice in the senate. And he was honored with the appointment because of his keen interest in state finance.

Senator Carpenter was a man of ability and a faithful public servant.

Ends Great Experiment

The sale of the United States and American Merchant lines to Paul W. Chapman, Inc., Chicago and New York investment bankers, which brought the total of vessels sold by the United States Shipping board since 1920 up to 1,600, marks what is practically the end of our government owned and operated merchant marine. The shipping board still has something like 600 vessels under its control, from 250 to 400 of which now held in reserve will be offered for sale at once, but the remainder will be operated by the board over the 23 freight lines on which 235 are now being utilized until arrangements can be made for their sale to private interests under the terms of the merchant marine enactment of last year.

Of the 2,500 vessels constructed and taken over during and since the World war, the cream is gone. With the exception of two taken over from Germany, all really valuable vessels have passed to other hands, and all have gone for a song. Those yet to be sold will go the same way, and thus the government is as good as out at least $3,000,000,000 on its great shipping experiment, $250,000,000 of the sum representing the total of the government's operating losses since 1920.

Like the great government venture as good as ended, the venture of the Chapman interests into the merchant marine business will be an experiment. It can not, of course, result in anything like the awful loss sustained by the government, for the reason that the government expended over $2,000,000,000 for which it got no return. The new owners have purchased the Leviathan, the George Washington, the America, the Republic, the President Harding and the President Roosevelt of the United States lines and the American Trader, American Merchant, American Banker, American Farmer and American Shipper of the American Merchant line for far less than it would cost today to build the Leviathan alone. The actual cash outlay of the Chapman purchase will be but a trifle over $4,000,000 and the government will loan them two-thirds of the $56,000,000 cost of the two new 45,000-ton liners to be constructed to enable them to maintain, with the Leviathan, a weekly service. If it is possible for any private interests to operate a fast fleet, or fleets, under the United States flag and overcome the handicap imposed by our laws on the operation of passenger vessels, the purchasers of the two lines should be able to accomplish that most desired end.

Passenger Business Hit

The recent announcement that the average citizen of the United States makes fewer railway journeys than he did 40 years ago—approximately only six annually—doesn't mean so much. As a matter of fact, it is rather surprising that the average is that high considering the way in which the automobile has cut into the railway business, especially in short trips. With an automobile for every five persons in the United States, it's a wonder that the railroads do the short-haul business that they do.

Statistics at hand show that the railroads of the United States carried 788,000,000 passengers in 1928, the passenger miles being 31,635,000,000. The year before they carried 840,029,650 with a total of 33,797,754,000 passenger miles, and the year before that, 1926, the number of passengers carried was 874,588,786 over 35,672,729,000 passenger miles.

How really great the decrease in the passenger business of the railroads of the country has been will be more readily appreciated by comparing the business done ten years previously. In 1918, when the population of the United States was but 104,000,000, the railroads carried 1,122,962,887 passengers 43,212,458,000 passenger miles against 788,000,000 passengers carried 31,635,000,000 passenger miles last year when the estimated population was 120,013,000. As a matter of fact, the railroads carried more passengers twenty years ago, when the estimated population was 91,572,266, than they did last year or than they do today, the record being 890,009,574 passengers carried in 1908.

While the chief reason for the mighty decrease in railroad passenger business is, of course, the automobile, a contributing factor in the loss of business by the railroad passenger service has been the wretched equipment the railroads have provided for the transportation of their patrons. The railroads, however, are learning, and, in an effort to regain some of their lost passenger business, are greatly improving their trains.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—The era of structural modernism in the form of federal buildings seems definitely at an end. The modern policy of the office of supervising architect of the treasury, which has charge of the designing of post offices, court houses, and other public buildings, promises to change for the better the quality of such edifices. It will take years for the old buildings, erected during the dark days of American architecture, to disappear from the land but, at least, no eyesores are being constructed.

The responsibility for the hideous buildings which were constructed up to the beginning of and a few years beyond the beginning of the twentieth century can not be singly laid. It belongs at several doors. From the Civil war on there was scarcely a building, public or private, which followed a happy design. The basic fault, therefore, must be attributed to that blind spot in architectural taste which affected not only the United States but the entire world.

But there was another reason. Public buildings used to come out of the pork barrel. Members of congress, wishing to dabble their constituents and, incidentally, erect monuments to themselves, clabbed together to pass appropriation bills furnishing money to build post offices. The needs of the community were secondary. Monumental buildings, in the wedding cake style or architecture, wholly unsuited to postal needs, were erected at needless expense. The members sponsoring such measures made deals.

With so many post offices and federal court houses being authorized, the supervising architect turned out a rather standardized type of building. Climate, historical associations, and such matters were paid no heed. The thing was to get the building and as expensive a building as possible.

But now two definite changes are bearing fruit. They have been in process for some years but it takes quite a while to make so complete a change in policy noticeable to the naked eye. In the first place, federal buildings are being designed in some sort of consonance and accord with their surroundings. In the second no larger building is constructed for a post office at a town than is needed, allowing a reasonable additional coefficient for expected expansion. In the old pork barrel days if congress appropriated a given amount for a building, it was carefully seen to that every penny authorized was spent. Now, as much money of the amount appropriated as is needed is expended to build a suitable building, adequate to serve the needs of the community; if there is a remainder, it is turned back into the treasury.

The first important departure from the old-style post office building was in the construction in large cities of structures of the office building type. Instead of using up large footage for impressive approaches, pedestals for statues, and other monumental and inimical trimmings, the land acquired is economically used, the building erected in accordance with sound city construction practice and all modern improvements in the way of mail handling machinery substituted for marble urns and symbolical figures. This by no means presupposes that the buildings can not be made beautiful. Indeed, office building construction lends itself readily to the highest type of striking design.

In the southern communities, especially the smaller cities, the buildings are large 'y of stucco or other smooth finish. Further north the Georgian style of red brick with stone or white wood quoins, pillars, stills, lintels, and other features, predominates. In the larger cities, of course, stone is used and splendid classical edifices are erected as at Minneapolis.

This revolution in architectural design of post offices brought about by the supervising architect's office is one of the brightest spots of the century.

A. The relief of Anaglypha Traiani in the Roman Forum represents the sacrifice of the bull, sheep, and pig, which usually accompanied the purificatory ceremonies or lustrum. Each animal represents a valuable part of the farmer's stock. The ceremonies generally took place at the close of the census and for the army at the beginning of a campaign, and probably also in connection with the founding of temples and other similar occasions. The animals were led around the assembly and then sacrificed.

A small amount of money expended in keeping a building or a piece of machinery painted adds greatly to the length of its life.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Street began to get busy in New York this morning. It is so long ago I cannot recall when last I wrote to forget it. The reporter did. The murderer had sent for his wife and the lawyer. When they reached his darkened cell he implored his wife to come to the door and kiss him. As she approached, he struck at her in a mad fury with an iron rod which from his coat. Only a cross bar which it struck saved her from instant death. The blow was with such force the murderer's hands were completely benumbed for 4 hours.

New York, especially Broadway and Fifth avenue, was once lined somewhat in the fashion of the Applian Way with beggars. Mendicancy became a specialized profession by which a worthless reaped an amazing harvest. It was not fiction many owned bank accounts and real estate.

Newspapers frequently carried stories of tatterdemalions picked up by the police with rolls of bills pinned in rags. And there was that exposure of the famous legless beggar who propelled himself up and down the avenue on a portable platform strutting the town.

He was discovered in an expensive apartment in a first class hotel, supporting a limousine with chauffeur. His wardrobe, as well as that of his wife, was the finest, and at night he donned artificial limbs and fared forth to cafes and theatres.

For years in the glitter of Times Square stood "Crying Mary," a hooded Niobe, who had control of tear ducts and wept at will. When she died she left property in New Jersey valued at several hundred thousand. Also "Blue Pete," seized by a premature powder blast, who picked up a fortune selling pencils.

The most adroit of the mendicants selected after theater crowds for their pillage. The "dummy chucker" waited under the theater marquee and at opportune moments pounced upon a planted crust of bread in the gutter and devoured it rapidly, while gulls tossed a shower of coins.

The lady "faint thrower" in tatters swooned and her handsomely dressed accomplices revolved her and thrust a generous bill in her hand, thus inspiring onlookers to follow her lead. There are still beggars, but comparatively few, and they are for the most part the hopelessly crippled who are thoroughly deserving.

One of Park Rowe's unprinted stories concerns a murderer in a sensational case.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

In Washington a few weeks ago one of the great figures in medicine died. Dr. Joseph Goldberger did much to benefit the human race. He studied yellow fever, typhus, measles and dengue fever. But his monumental work was in connection with pellagra.

As a result of this great doctor's work, cause and cure of pellagra were found. But more than this, his research shed new light on the science of human diet. The knowledge of many things in medicine was widened by this man's efforts.

What Dr. Goldberger did, was to remove pellagra from the long list of mysterious things. He has left us, but his efforts for humanity will survive forever.

The name given the disease we have mentioned is from two words—"pellis," meaning the "skin," and "agra," meaning "catching." These were united into the odd name, "pellagra."

It is, due to disturbed nutrition. The most conspicuous symptom is the puffy swelling of the skin. It begins on the back of the hands, looking not unlike severe sunburn. Later, the feet, neck and forehead may be involved.

There may be blisters over the inflamed surfaces. The skin grows darker in color and much thickened for a time. Then it begins to shrivel up and peel.

Other early symptoms are disturbances of digestion. Ulcers of the mouth, sickness at the stomach and vomiting are observed. Painful diarrhoea is another sign.

The third center of attack is the nervous system. At first there may be headache and dizziness. Weakness, inability to think clearly, terrible depression of spirits and finally a form of insanity, this is the course of the disease.

You can see that it is a distressing and, until its cause was found, a pretty hopeless ailment. That is why Dr. Goldberger's work is so important.

It took this good man fourteen years of hard and dangerous work to solve this problem. It was important to find a cure because large sections of the South were afflicted. It had flourished there since the time of the war between the States.

For a long time it was thought that the disease came from eating spoiled corn. Goldberger's research disproved this and determined that the symptoms are the result of a lack in the diet, the absence of what he called "P. P."—pellagra preventative. In short, the ailment is what we call a "deficiency disease."

Pellagra follows a diet of corn meal, polished rice, white flour, molasses, sugar, fat pork, turnip greens, sweet potatoes and coffee. The diet you see, is largely sugar and starch and lacking in protein.

It is the conclusion of students of this disease, including Goldberger, that protein foods must be given. Milk, meat, eggs and vegetables are important.

We are thankful for Goldberger's gift to the race. We mourn his untimely death. His fifty-three years were crowded with good works. He earned his crown.

Making a Bad Matter Worse.

As a revenue producer the gasoline tax is most convenient. Just add a cent a gallon, and $8,000,000 a year comes rolling into the coffers. Once the principle of the tax is admitted by enactment of the first law, the rest comes easy.

Ohio first taxed the fuel of the ape two cents; then it was increased to three; now a member of the house proposes to jump it another cent. The state is supposed to need the money, and the fraternity of accelerator pressers are expected to stand for the levy.

It is not denied that the gas tax is sound in principle, when the money is used on highways, for it distributes the cost with fair justice among those who use the roads. There must be a limit, however, beyond which the legislature can not in fairness go.

Our own opinion is that Ohio motorists are already taxed as heavily and in as many ways as reason can justify. We have another and perhaps better reason for opposing the bill now offered at Columbus.

Mr. Sullivan, of Union county, author of the bill, not only proposes to increase the gas tax by thirty per cent, but would also redistribute the income from the tax. He would take some $1,500,000 from the cities, where the bulk of the tax is paid, and use it on township roads.

Too much of the money taken from city drivers already goes into roads they never see. The Sullivan bill would make a bad matter worse—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

YOU CAN'T DYE with Good Intentions

You can get results—after a fashion—with any old dye; but to do work you are proud of takes real aniline. That's why we put them in Diamond Dyes. They contain from three to five times more than other dyes on the market! Cost more to make? Surely. But you get them for the same price as other dyes.

Next time you want to dye, try them. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare the results. Note the absence of that red-dyed look; of streaking or spotting. See that they take none of the life out of the cloth. Observe how the colors keep their brilliance through wear and washing. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or put silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

"I am strong for Luckies."

John Gilbert
Celebrated Screen Star

"Motion picture actors are under a great strain—they need the comforting qualities of a good cigarette. That is why most of us smoke Lucky Strike. The marvelous toasted flavor of Luckies brings complete enjoyment and relaxation but does not hurt the throat or wind. I am strong for Luckies—they are the 'stars' of the cigarette picture. I would rather have a Lucky after a meal than rich pastries or desserts."

JOHN GILBERT

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

EAST END

CLOSE REVIVAL ON WEDNESDAY

Rev. Paul Hudson Nears Campaign End Here.

"God made the world for men to live in, but not for the world to live in them," declared the Rev. Paul Hudson, of Hartford, Conn., at the Second Baptist church last night. His theme was "Being Ourselves."

Announcement was made that the revival would close on Wednesday night. The evangelist's subject to night will be "Christ's Church."

"Let us therefore come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need," Heb. 4:15, formed his text. He laid stress on Christians living that which they professed. One should let the world know what you are, sinner or Christian," he observed.

An apple tree is supposed to produce apples and a fig tree figs; likewise Christians should develop good works and be known by that which they do.

"The grace of God has made it possible to overcome the temptations of the world. If we come boldly before Him we shall obtain mercy and develop power sufficient to so live that all may know we are such that by our fruits we may be known."

Under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Thomas, the church choir sang "Dwelling in Beulah Land" and "Before This Time Another Year."

21 DIE WHEN STORM SWEEPS DUNCAN, MISS.

Cyclone Virtually Wipes
Little Town Off
Map.

50 ARE INJURED
Unestimated Property
Toll Runs Into Thousands.

DUNCAN, Miss., Feb. 26.—Twenty-one persons dead, 50 or more injured, and an unestimated property damage that will run into thousands, was the known toll today of a cyclone which late yesterday virtually wiped this little town off the map.

By the flare of torchlights, volunteer workmen searched the debris of the devastated sections during the night for the bodies of the dead, and with the first rays of dawn, 21 sheet-covered victims lay in the temporary morgue.

All of the seriously injured were being taken to hospitals in nearby cities. Many of them, it was believed, were so horribly mangled that they will not recover. Physicians and nurses, rushed here when first news of the disaster was received, administered first aid treatment.

Rain which followed in the wake of the storm continued all night. The village was without light or water. The public utilities plants having been demolished by the twister along with dozens of other buildings and residences.

Before striking here the twister swooped down upon the little town of Alligator, six miles away, and injured five persons whose home was demolished. The storm did not strike at any other place in that vicinity, according to reports here.

DEWITT, Ark., Feb. 26.—A finger of the vicious tornado which raked the South yesterday reached here and had claimed two victims today.

Mrs. R. C. Nichols, 48, and her daughter, May, 16, were dead as the result of a twister which devastated their farm near here. R. C. Nichols, the husband, is in a hospital in a serious condition.

The bodies of Mrs. Nichols and her daughter and Nichols were found in a field near the wrecked farmhouse.

River Rising

Flood Warnings Issued.

With many people unable to occupy their homes—highways flooded—traffic impeded and impossible, in some places—and with flood warnings issued for Coshocton, Circleville, Chillicothe, Delaware and Larue, Central Ohio today faced serious flood danger and damage, with a possible recurrence of the 1913 floods in some spots.

Spring. I experienced the greatest damage as a result of the torrential rains last night and early this morning. Residents of lowlands there were compelled to flee from their homes. City streets were overflowed with three feet of water. Factories were put out of commission, due to flooded basements. Breaking of a water main caused a temporary cessation of the water works system, and light and power services were temporarily suspended.

Terror-stricken residents were taken from their partially inundated homes in a suburb of Hamilton.

Washouts caused the suspension of traction services in scattered sections of central Ohio.

The downpour in Columbus amounted to 2.6 inches. Many a would-be motorist had to resort to the street car this morning, finding the water in the street where he had left his car last night was so deep the machine couldn't be moved under its own power.

Several families were marooned near Toledo when the Sibley creek poured from its banks.

Other sections in the northern part of the state reported no flood danger.

Ohio river conditions from East Liverpool to Cincinnati caused no alarm, but observers were keeping a "weather-eye" open.

Highways Inundated.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Feb. 26. Water a foot deep on the highways made automobile travel precarious from this city today. Roads from here to Coshocton, Dover, Canton and Massillon were inundated in several places. Streams were reported out of their banks and the Tuscarawas river at flood stage.

MARION, O., Feb. 26.—Farm lands were inundated at Larue, near here, today, when the Scioto river left its banks. No occasion for alarm was reported. The heaviest rainfall in the state was recorded here last night, the fall being 2.3 inches.

COSHOCTON, O., Feb. 26.—The Muskingum river here was reported three feet above flood stage today due to the tropical-like rain that pelted this section last night and early today. River stage was reported at 11.05 feet, while 8 feet is flood stage. Waters encroached on the lowlands.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—Water flooded the streets from one to four feet here early today as the heavy downpour diminished into a drizzling rain. Creeks in this section were on their seasonal rampage. The river had not reached flood stage. Much damage was reported due to flooded cellars.

Factories Forced to Suspend.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 26.—Factories were forced to suspend operations, roads were flooded, the lowlands swamped and residents of a suburb were forced to flee from their homes today following the torrential rain in this section here last night.

Three feet of water covered the

MEXICAN VILLAGE IS LINDY'S EDEN

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, Feb. 26.—The love of a man for a maid and their courtship amid the romance of idyllic scenery, under the shadow of a towering and ancient cathedral, with its perfume of tropical flowers about them, has made the little Mexican village the eden spot of all Americans today.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the world's best known lover, is paying court to a shy, dark-eyed, dark-haired girl, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow. They have strolled hand in hand beneath the yucca trees of this lofty valley of Cuernavaca while the famous flyer, once noted for his coldly methodical views of everyday life and his seclusion from feminine society, spoke softly to the young girl at his side.

It was an ideal spot for love making. To the residents of this sleepy old valley they are "Carlos" and "Anita," just two young lovers.

VARE DECISION AGAIN POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A final decision on the question of excluding Senator-elect William S. Vare (R.) of Pennsylvania, was postponed by the senate today until the next session of congress because of the Pennsylvania senator's illness.

first floor of the American Seeding Machine company plant. Four other plants also suspended operations.

Residents of Lima City, a suburb, were forced to move from their houses during the night.

Traffic on the national highway was impeded at Harmony, east of here, by a two-foot torrent of water that rushed across the road for a distance of 200 yards.

Many cellars were flooded, doing unestimated damage.

HAMILTON, O., Feb. 26.—Heavy rains have swollen the streams in the vicinity of Hamilton to a height greater than at any time since the 1913 flood.

Peck's addition, a lowland adjoining the Miami river south of here, is under water. Terror-stricken residents were removed from their homes.

The Seven Mile pike, north of Hamilton, has been flooded by Four Mile creek, and many residents of New Miami village left their homes when the water reached the level of their first floors.

Interurban service between Hamilton and Middletown has been suspended due to a washout near Trenton.

The water is higher at Oxford than it has been at any time since 1913.

Galion Predicts Flood.

GALION, O., Feb. 26.—With high ways near here completely covered by water, as the result of incessant rains recently, and with the water still rising, it was predicted here today that the great flood of 1913 may be exceeded.

Muskingum Out Of Banks

MARIETTA, Ohio, Feb. 26.—Despite heavy rains during the night, which caused considerable snow to be melted and swept into the streams, no danger from floods in this section was indicated today.

The Muskingum river is running out of its banks in places, but the Ohio river is stationary—at the 14-foot stage. Thirty-six feet is the danger line here.

The weather is cool and cloudy.

ZANESVILLE, O., Feb. 26.—The Muskingum river here came up 6 1/2 feet in the last 12 hours, but was 11 feet under flood stage.

An ice jam at Philo threatened that section last night, but broke up without causing any damage.

DUAL TRAGEDY ROCKS VILLAGE

Man Kills Wife and Self at Brookfield, O.

BROOKFIELD, O., Feb. 26.—A dual tragedy today rocked the serenity of this little village.

John Frakas, 45, shot and killed his wife here yesterday and then turned the gun on himself, inflicting fatal wounds.

A neighbor girl, Elizabeth Sabo, 12, witnessed the shooting.

The Frakas are the parents of five children. None of them, however, witnessed the episode, as they were in school.

Two days of quarreling culminated in the shooting, neighbors said.

Brookfield is in Ohio just across the line from Sharon, Pa.

that necessitates, in Mr. Hoover's opinion, the appointment of an attorney general who cannot possibly be accused of being unfriendly to the law he is to enforce. One of the embarrassments of the Coolidge administration has been the constant criticism from professional prohibitionists that enforcement of the law was in the hands of Secretary Mellon, "a former distiller."

Under the circumstances, were Col. Donovan to have been named attorney general, the Hoover administration would have been open to the same accusation from prohibitionists that enforcement was put in the hands of "a wet Catholic."

Shippers Urge Action.
Shippers, particularly East End manufacturers, say they are handicapped because of railroad shipping facilities, the railroad company being unable to move cars from private sidings to the main tracks because of the many through freight trains.

No action was taken by council on the railroad company's request, although the matter probably will be up for discussion at the meeting next Monday night. With the exception of President C. E. Hayes, all members attended the party. Railroad company officials present included F. L. Dobson, Cleveland, Cleveland division superintendent; J. M. Fox, Cleveland, division engineer and George Sauvain, Wellsville, supervisor of the Beaver Bayard subdivision.

"Elec," property of the Ohio Power company, is now on a tour. His visit to East Liverpool will terminate Saturday night.

"Elec" works on the same principle as Robot the mechanical man recently brought to the United States by Captain W. B. Richards, British Engineer, soldier and journalist. Richard's invention is superior to "Elec," however, inasmuch as Robot talks.

CHARLES CHAPLIN SERIOUSLY ILL

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 26.—Suffering from an attack of pneumonia poisoning, Charles Chaplin, film comedian, was confined to his bed here today.

Physicians said his condition was not alarming but that he would probably have to remain at his home for a week.

Chaplin was stricken at his Hollywood studio yesterday.

Fordham Notes Earth Tremors.

TODAY

JAPAN need not worry about mere words. The people do not rule this country either to any alarming extent. Real ruling is done by well-organized finance that says what it wants and gets it.

But some one, or something must rule. The high powers here give the American 120,000,000 plenty of automobiles, radios, telephones, moving pictures and fairly good wages.

AND the people are content being told once every year, July 4th, that they are the rulers.

Perhaps benevolent, intelligent plutocracy that supplies automobiles and radios is better, on the whole, than agitated, experimenting democracy that would supply worry. It takes a nation more than one century to learn how to rule itself. In fact, no nation has ever learned thus far in history.

LORD BEAVERBROOK, owner of the London Express and a great deal of money, is in America, cheerful about things in general. Coolidge has helped Britain's coal situation. British shipping and ship-building have improved.

Beaverbrook, born in Canada and possessing brains, complains that bankers possess too much of the ruling power in England. "They favor the general financial situation, without regard to the industrial situation," says he.

Here the same men rule banks and industries, making one hand wash the other nicely. Beaverbrook comes to see how it is done.

FOUR men that murdered seven members of the Moran gang, in Chicago, do not intend to be caught, if gang methods can prevent it.

Dr. L. W. Tacker revealed some information about the murderers. He was kidnapped, taken for a ride and told he would be dumped out dead.

The kidnappers changed their minds and sent him home to tell others. "Squealing, in this case, will not be good for your health."

As a health resort for squealers, Chicago is a complete failure. To know the guilty and keep your mouth shut, or tell and be murdered is a difficult choice. Mussolini convinced the Mafia that there is, in government, a power above crime. But there is only one Mussolini.

Gangsters ask you to notice that, as a rule, they only kill each other, and usually kill someone that is no loss to the community.

ACCORDING to Dr. George Krause, a German engineer, one and a half grams of silver, a quantity that you could hold between finger and thumb, will, properly prepared, purify ten billion gallons of impure water.

The possibility of influencing so much water with so little silver is not puzzling to those that realize, even vaguely, the number of atoms in one and a half grams.

Ancient physicians that prescribe gold and other precious metals powdered as medicine may have had a good idea, minus the knowledge to make it effective.

OUR Filipino friends cheer Henry L. Stimson, American governor general, on his departure. A change, unquestionably sincere has come over the Filipinos and their desire to be free and govern themselves.

These few words made the change: "Of course, if you become independent of America, sugar sent by you to the United States will be taxed." That would mean some millions a year to the Philippines, and the separatists have seen a great, golden light. Freedom is magnificent, but not if it costs too much money.

THE House of Representatives taking the advice of President Coolidge, declined to increase by $24,000,000 the amount to be spent enforcing prohibition this year.

Congress gives enforcement officers what ought to be a powerful weapon, heavy fines and long periods in jail for bootlegging.

But, there is nothing like real money and the $24,000,000 will be missed.

Woman Stricken During Fire, Dies.

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., Feb. 26.—Mrs. J. M. Klever, 77, who suffered a paralytic stroke during a fire at Bloomingburg, near here, Sunday, was dead today.

The fire, one of the most serious in the history of the village, destroyed two buildings and did damage of $12,000. Mrs. Klever was watching the blaze when she was stricken.

"YELLOW DOG" BILL IS KILLED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—The Marshall bill seeking to outlaw "open shop" labor contracts, was killed today by the house judiciary committee. The measure was known as the "Yellow Dog" bill.

After rejecting a motion that the committee recommend passage of this bill, the committee, by a vote of 8 to 6, indefinitely postponed further consideration of the measure.

The judiciary committee unanimously recommended passage of the Miller bill which would permit state support of universities and colleges to issue bonds for the purpose of erecting dormitories. These bonds would be paid off with the revenue derived from the operation of present dormitories.

Bills scheduled to come up in the senate this afternoon on a question of passage includes: The Nickels bill, licensing operators of motor vehicles; the Clark bill, providing for protection on the lives of children by fraternal benefit societies; the Gillen bill, revising and codifying Ohio's code of criminal procedure; the Nickels bill, relating to applications for registration of motor vehicles.

The Cramer bill, providing punishment for habitual criminals, is scheduled to be called up on a question of passage in the house this afternoon.

COOLIDGE QUILTS CAPITAL MAR. 4

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Coolidge will leave Washington shortly after the inaugural ceremonies that conduct his successor into office, it was announced at the White House today.

Under present plans, Mr. Coolidge will witness the ceremonies and then go directly to Union station to depart for Northampton. He plans to leave Washington on the Montreal limited at 2 o'clock. A private car has been offered him by Gen. W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, but it has not yet been accepted.

TWO LADS DIE IN TRUCK CRASH

FREMONT, O., Feb. 26.—Two youths were burned to death in a peculiar three-car motor accident on the McPherson highway, two miles east of here, early today.

Leland Walls, 21, Delphos, and Paul Clark, 19, Ada, were burned beyond recognition when the produce truck, in which they were riding was overturned when another truck struck it after being hit by a large sedan.

The driver of the second truck, was slightly injured. He was Donald D. Card, 30, of Detroit.

SPANKED, BOY KILLS FATHER

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—A 12-year-old boy, who shot his father to death because he had spanked him, was in the custody of police today. He is Charles Nicoletta. His father, Phillip, was killed with five pistol bullets. The boy's mother witnessed the shooting but was unable to intervene, she told police.

Mrs. Steinfeld today extended her thanks to the booth chairman and to all others who contributed to the success of the drive.

As the result of the successful culmination of the campaign East Liverpool retains its place as the largest city on the honor roll in the state.

In addition to Mrs. Steinfeld, the local health seal committee includes Mrs. John S. Goodwin, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Larkins auditor.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Most of the industrial favorites moved upward in the first period today, but the weight of an 8 per cent renewal money rate and heavy profit-taking prevented any extended advance, and by the end of the first hour the reaction set in. United States Steel pushed up a point to 190 1/2 before encountering very much selling pressure, and Continental Banking reached a new high on the 100 at 65.

New gains of 30 to 65 points in New York bank stocks accompanied rumors of more consolidations to follow on the heels of the merger of the Guaranty and Commerce banks into a $2,000,000,000 institution.

Industrial stocks were extremely irregular in the second hour. Loew's led the specialties with a 4-point jump to 79 1/2; Anaconda and Kennecott Copper moved up a few points, but most of the stocks which led yesterday's final spurt, including Bethlehem and U. S. Steel, sold off a point or two from the peaks.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in love with a boy three years my senior and he is with me. He has been married, but has been parted just about eight months.

He says he loves me better than any other girl he ever went with. Please give me your advice about going with him.

Do you think I am doing the wrong thing by going with the young man? My parents say he ought to be single before I go with him.

Please advise me as soon as possible.

STILL WAITING: Your parents are right, my dear. You should not go about with the young man until he is free of his marriage ties. By so doing, you are leaving yourself open to unpleasant criticism, and, justly, so wait until he is free to offer his attentions before you take him seriously.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have only lived here a few months and know a boy, whom I like very much.

He is very refined and nice. The only thing about him though, is that he is wild.

As I am not wild myself, I wonder if you could advise me how to win this boy's admiration, without being wild, too.

Please let me know promptly.

RAMONA: You will probably win his admiration by being your own sweet natural self, then trying to adapt yourself to his mode of life. It is more than probable that your sweetness and innocence has been the magnet which attracted him. So don't attempt to change yourself, my dear.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I'm a girl 16 years old and can truthfully say that I've never been kissed by a boy. Now don't think I've been a wallflower for indeed I haven't and am in love with an adorable boy four years my senior. He has never tried to kiss me, although I'm positive that he loves me dearly. Don't you think that that shows he has more respect for me than the other girls he's come with and kissed?

When he does try to kiss me should I let him or not? If he really loves me would a little kiss make him think that I'm like all the rest? MICKEY.

MICKEY: Such a young man as you describe will probably only make the attempt to kiss you when he declares his love for you. You are indeed fortunate to have the friendship of such a young man and you are to be congratulated.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Nowadays it's important to stop your cold quick before it weakens your resistance to more serious trouble.

Any of the older treatments will bring relief—after a time. But thousands say this new way is the quickest of any.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon, and night, the first day. Do same the second day. Then only at night. Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That makes you feel achy, feverish, weak. Phillips Milk of Magnesia relieves this, and restores the alkaline balance.

Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it. Millions know how it relieves sour stomachs, gas, indigestion, constipation and other symptoms of too much acid. Get the genuine.

SEEK AND FIND GOD, APPEAL OF REV. S. E. WEST

Large Crowd Hears Free Methodist Pastor.

REVIVAL SERVICE

Lord Should Be Sought In Humility, He Says.

That men should seek the Lord when in health and better able to supplicate their demands than when suffering was declared by the Rev. S. E. West, pastor, at the Free Methodist church revival in Avondale street last night. His subject, was "Seeking and Finding God."

A large crowd heard the discourse. "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found; call upon him while he is near, Isaiah 55:6; for the words of his text.

"It is a blessing in itself to seek the Lord," said the Rev. Mr. West. A submission to God is precluded by a proud heart which prevents yielding. As the servant searched for the lost silver and the shepherd for the lost sheep persistence should be had until the Lord is found.

"The halfhearted will never find God for the search for Him will be found to have not been persistent enough.

"The Lord should be sought in humility. The search should be carried on in earnest and by confession. And confession should not be more public than the sin committed. The private confession will find God having it done in the right place.

"God should be sought with believing faith, for without faith it is impossible to find God, or to please Him. It is harder to pray when suffering, therefore God should be sought in the degree possible when one is in health.

Sharkey And Stribling Rest On Eve Of Battle Of Everglades

Experts Make Gob Favorite

Seat Sale Tops $300,000; Florida Resort Jammed.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26.—The last crash of the battle of the Everglades is reverberating through greater Miami today and the entire city is crowded with light fans and even in the city across the bay, where there are said to be accommodations for 50,000 visitors, rooms are at a premium.

The ticket sale total, well above $300,000 today, assures the Madison Square Garden corporation of a neat profit on this venture on which they expected to lose from $50,000 to $75,000. With two days more to go Bill Sharkey now predicts a gate of more than $350,000.

Sharkey and Stribling breezed through brief workouts before the crowds again yesterday. Pa Stribling announced that his boy would not appear in public today. He claims young Stribling is holding his weight about 184 pounds and will take only light exercise today. The pride of the south did no boxing yesterday. Sharkey ended the ring at 1921, boxed two rounds each with Paul Hoffman and Johnny Grosso.

Sharkey lost less than a pound doing his exercise yesterday. He weighed 191 after a rub-down. Today he will just limber up and then go into seclusion. He expects to enter the ring at about 194.

Pa Stribling emphatically denies that his fighting son has dislocated a rib and will not be in good condition for the fight. "He wrenched his back last Wednesday" said Pa, "and almost fainted from the pain. We cut the workout short and for the next three nights the boy was treated with applications of hot water bags on his arm and back. He felt some shooting pains in his left arm but managed to work the kinks out by last Saturday and is O. K. now. Yes, I know the story is going around that he may not fight. That's nonsense. He went through every test we put him to today and none of them was painful.

Beat reports on the southerner sent the price on Sharkey up to $ to 5 yesterday. Very little important money has been laid on the line.

Martin Burke, Dempsey's old sparring partner, thinks Stribling may finish the Boston man in a round or two.

"He's the hardest hitter I ever faced," says Martin. "He's fast, too, and you fellows don't realize how he has improved. He is so sure he is going to win in a jiffy that he is sending his wife to the fight and insists on her getting there early or she may miss the knockout."

The consensus of expert opinion, however, favors Sharkey on past performances. Both men have been known to disappoint. Sharkey is an in-and-out boxer but Stribling has never made a good fight against Johnny Risio in New York about three years ago.

Millionaires Take 'Day Off' To See Fight

Swanky Audience Adds Color to Florida Battle.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26.—Jack Sharkey of Boston and W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., will climb through the ropes at Flamingo park arena tomorrow night and exchange lefts and rights before the swankiest audience that ever witnessed a boxing contest in this country.

Peering at them will be more than six hundred millionaires of whom Madison Square Garden, New York, has so often proudly boasted.

There surely will be at least 1,000 millionaires in the arena tomorrow night. For every train rolled into Miami today disgorged men whose bank rolls are something to conjure with.

Not only that, but at the roadside will be as representative a gathering of the press as ever has pounded typewriters beneath the glare of the arena lights of a prize ring. More than 400 sports writers, the very best in the country, are on the scene and they are almost as keyed up for the event as if it were a championship bout.

The amazing part of the whole thing is that neither Sharkey or Stribling are absolutely top notch fighters. Both of them have put up some pretty good performances. The thing that has whipped up interest, however, is the sectional angle—the north versus the south.

MOUNT PASSERS DEFEAT HIRAM

ALLIANCE, O., Feb. 26.—Mount Union's basketball team defeated the scalps of another Ohio conference team here last night by walloping Hiram, 50 to 20.

The Hiram lads were hindered somewhat, when their bus broke down en route from Hiram to Alliance, and they were about an hour late for the game. Having no chance to rest up and practice before game time, the visitors showed a little speed at the start of the game, but this first period rally was soon checked by Mount.

FORMER MEMBER OF GIANTS LEADS TOLEDO BASKETEERS HERE TONIGHT

"Pip" Koehler Pilots Red Men In Clash With Ceramic Quint

Will Play Guard for Famous Toledo Organization; is Basketeer in Winter and "Mud Hen" Outfielder in Summer.

EAST LIVERPOOL basketball fans tonight will have an opportunity of seeing "Pip" Koehler, guard and captain of the Toledo Red Men and one of the most colorful figures in athletics in the eastern section of the country.

Koehler will go into action when the Red Men battle the East Liverpool club at the auditorium. And despite the fact that the Ceramics will line up with the same squad that swamped the Duquesne Lafayette last week, including Firth Smith, Nate Lippe and Paul English at the forwards, Eddie Losman and Joe Canne, centers, and Moon Kilnzing, Percy Wyant and Bill Miller on the guards, local case followers today were not so certain that the Potters will finish as easily as they did against the Pittsburghers.

The Red Men play this independent circuit as though it were championship stuff. Their record shows that. They knocked off both the Cleveland Rosenblums and the Chicago Bruins, both of the American League.

And Koehler, along with "Cookie" Cunningham, the big center, are the outstanding figures.

Koehler was signed by the Red Men this season after three years of professional basketball and three years of college basketball.

Koehler has a world of natural ability and this, coupled with his earnest and hard playing, makes him one of the stars of professional competition. Entering Penn State College in 1921 he made a wonderful record in both basketball and baseball from his first season of competition to his senior year. Leaving college, he coached prep school basketball and played the professional game with Philadelphia in the Eastern League. It was here that he first met Davey Banks, who later became one of the greatest forwards in the country, when paired with Nat Holman as a member of the world champion Celtics.

The season of 1926-27 found Koehler playing basketball with the Pittsburgh Morris in the Central League. His sensational work that season enabled the Morris to win the championship of the Central League.

Pip, during the basketball season of 1926, was signed by the Giants and finished the season in a McGraw uniform. Sold to Toledo in the American Association, he took over the regular berth of center fielder in company with the veteran Bob Veach and the famous slugging Bevo LeBouveau.

He has been one of Toledo's baseball stars for the past three years, during which time the "Mud Hens" won the A. A. U. pennant, and then in a past season series, walked off with the title of junior world champions.

Playing with the Fort Wayne Basketball association of the American League last season, Koehler was rated as one of the best defensive guards in the game. Speed and hard playing won him the admiration of the Hoosiers fans and he became known in Ft. Wayne as the "grayhound of the court." Big hands and long arms, a pair of broad shoulders and untiring feet, he plays the game because he likes it, and plays it with such an enthusiasm that he wins the admiration of the fans.

NATIONAL CAGE MEETS DOOMED

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—The end of an annual national high school basketball tournament at Chicago was predicted here today as a result of an amendment adopted by the National

Referee Will Give Decision

Kleane to Call Turn in Valley A. C. Bouts Tonight.

INTRODUCING a new wrinkle to local boxing circles, the Valley A. C. promoting the Morris-Carusio, Edwards-Shirley bouts and others to night at the city hall auditorium in Wellsville, will send slugs in each of the five scraps on the card to a referee's decision.

Announcing the winner at the end of each scrap, and, incidentally, giving the boys something to argue over, Harry Kleane, Midland police sergeant, will call the turn in each scrap as it ends.

Ordinarily, the fighter who takes part in a bout where there is no official decision, either by judges or referee, puts the result down as "no decision" even if his opponent, Joe Whosett, knocks him through the ropes with every other punch.

When the decision is called, it stands as final, as far as the records are concerned and, as a result, most of the boys are inclined to get in there and fight.

Referee Kleane will have a tough one on his hands tonight in the event that the Morris-Carusio six-rounder is close. Caruso has a big following in Midland which is all heated up over the approaching scrap and the whole crowd has reserved a section in the Wellsville hall arena.

But both fighters are confident of winning by a big margin. Caruso is certain he'll take Morris as he took Johnny Pollock. Morris says he's not worrying about it at all.

Suffering from a badly cut eye which already has knocked him out one bout in the Pittsburgh district, Joe Poole, of Lawrenceville, scheduled with Pat Penrose, the Canton Italian, will not be able to appear. Poole was cut badly about the face in his recent fight with Maxie Brown in Youngstown and despite warnings of Matchmaker Ray Fouts insisted in working out last week without a headguard.

And Saturday he got it. While sparring with Pete Zivic, a wound over his eye was opened up. The cut is pretty bad and, as a result, Poole feels he will be unable to give his best. Fouts, as a result, has been trying to get Maxie Brown, the fellow who battled Poole so ferociously. In the event that Brown is unavailable, Fouts has another good candidate lined up in Pittsburgh.

The third six-rounder will bring Freddy Edwards of Chester and Rip Shirley of Canton together.

"Poison" Pizzone and Fearless Franks are scheduled for four and Tommy Gualtieri and K. O. Alex for the same number.

MORRIS

MORRIS ON JOB EARLY

Harry Morris, the Weirton fighter who's billed to take on Nick Caruso of Midland in a six-rounder tonight at Wellsville, got his dates mixed and yesterday afternoon appeared in Wellsville, grip and all, ready to weigh in for the bout.

Despite the fact that he distributed cards in Weirton, read newspaper clippings and talked with the promoters, Morris forgot the date and arrived a day early. He had to go back last night and ask the boss for another night off.

Pirates Will Open With Cubs

Forbes Field Lid-lifter Scheduled for April 24.

THE National League baseball schedule just released for publication reveals many choice morsels of outdoor entertainment on the schedule of home games of the Pittsburgh club. Not only have the Buccaneers all three major holidays, Decoration Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day, at home, but they also have fifteen Saturday dates, two with each of six clubs and three with the Cincinnati Reds. The weaker clubs have been strengthened quite a little over the off-season and, with the Pirates making a desperate effort to win another pennant, every game on the schedule this year should prove a mighty interesting battle.

The home season of the Pirates opens Wednesday, April 24, and no more tempting lid-lifter could be provided than the Chicago Cubs, who have been pennant contenders for a number of years and who are stronger than ever this year. The Chicago boys will also play at Forbes Field, Thursday, April 25, Friday, April 26 and Saturday, April 27. The St. Louis Cardinals are the second team to appear at Forbes Field, coming for a single game on Thursday, May 2. The Pirates then jump off for a swing around the eastern end of the circuit, returning to Forbes Field for a long string of home games, beginning with a three games series with the St. Louis Cardinals, last year's champions, on May 16, 17 and 18, the latter being a Saturday date.

The Pirates, as well as almost every major league team, are off to training camp this week, and while the spring conditioning work is under way, home preparations for the season are being given a lot of consideration. The playing field, of course, will have to have the usual grooming, while the big stand will come in for a complete renovation.

Opening day tickets already are on hand and are being sold by mail to the hundreds of fans who each year try to be the first customer. From the volume of orders already received, the indications are that the opening day throng will be capacity, as usual. Many orders also are being received for the first Saturday, April 27. This mail sale will continue until the regular public sale a few weeks prior to opening day.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

"Bumpton," said the baron. "Be honest. Ye gave her a very good character."

"And so she has it, My Lord."

"Ye said she'd been in service as housekeeper at the Marquis of Amberley's, and she'd been to sea in the Marquis' schooner, and she'd come to me if I really wanted her. But the only reason I engaged her was that you wouldn't leave her behind."

"No more I would, My Lord. How could I? I never have left her, and she's never left me. We've always been what they call inseparable."

"Yes," said the baron, leaning on his elbow and looking up at Bumpton. "It's a wonderful story. But don't ye think ye ought to give her a bit of a holiday from her husband? Pleasant change for her."

"She isn't one for holidays, My Lord. I have suggested it, once or twice. For her sake. But she isn't having any."

"Try her again. Tell her I'll pay all her holiday expenses."

Bumpton shook his head.

"And supposing she did go off alone, which she won't, we couldn't manage aboard without her. I couldn't face it, My Lord. She sees to everything—I mean in my department."

"And not only in yours, I should say," the baron put in.

"No, My Lord," said Bumpton firmly. "She never interferes with the navigating; I'll say that for her."

"Well, it's a lot to say, Bumpton."

"It may be, My Lord. But I'll say it. And Your Lordship can ask anybody aboard. No, My Lord. I really couldn't manage without her. And what's more, I like a woman under me. There's so many things about my job that they understand better than any man could. Laundry work, for instance. And mending. And I don't know what all. And even if I could manage, I couldn't leave the poor little thing to go home from here all alone. It's a two days' journey, and all customs and frontiers and changing trains! I couldn't bear the thought of it, My Lord. I've always looked after her hand and foot."

"But she needn't go, Bumpton. I'm not asking her to go. She's going off her own accord."

"Yes, My Lord. But she's going."

"And you're going?"

"And I'm going, My Lord. And very, very sorry I am. I know how inconvenient it'll be for Your Lordship. And I don't expect Your Lordship to take me on again at Belgrave Square, much as I shall miss it. And I don't know, as I expect Your Lordship to give me a character, but I shouldn't be easy in my conscience if I didn't go. At once."

"Then yer wife does realize that she's making things just a bit rough for me?"

"Oh, she does, My Lord."

"Well, that's something. Has she happened to say what she thinks I ought to do in the circumstances?"

"Yes, My Lord. She's one that thinks of everything. It's her opinion that Your Lordship's best plan would be to leave the yacht and go and stay in a hotel in Rome or somewhere handy until you can get a new chief steward and housekeeper over from England."

Lord Furber stood up.

"Bumpton," said he solemnly. "Your wife is a great woman. You're right about her. There's nobody like her. You go to Mr. Antipope and tell him I say he's to pay her full wages and $100 in addition. I should like to show my admiration of your poor little Daisy. And I hope she won't refuse the money. You tell her I'm sorry I said anything in my dreams to upset her, and tell her I'll see her d-d before I leave my own yacht. You tell her I'll see her d-d first. Be sure to say d-d."

"Yes, My Lord."

"And I shall take you back at Belgrave Square because I understand the position. Yes, I understand it. That'll do. Ye can have one of my launches if ye want it."

Harriet Volunteers.

"By the way," asked Harriet, when Bumpton had thankfully left the room. "What is your Christian name?"

"Ralph," said Lord Furber.

"Well, Ralph, you behaved very well that time, if you don't mind my telling you. You were both a philosopher and a philanthropist for at least five minutes—I'm beginning to admire you."

Harriet spoke with faint enthusiasm. She tried not to be patronizing and the baron tried not to be patronized. Neither succeeded fully, but both were pleased with their efforts.

"Ye'd better put that in writing," said the baron.

Said Harriet:

"And I must tell you something else. He's the nicest man in the yacht, and I love him."

"Who?"

"Bumpton, of course! I've no idea."

"Ah!" said the baron. "He's always at his best with me. And I'm at my best with him. That fellow likes me, and I like him—as much as I hate his wife. More, I don't really hate her. I admire her, because she's the only one around here that doesn't care a damn for me. See me coaxing her sometimes, and her not having any. If you ask me, the explanation is that she's jealous of him being fond of me, and me being fond of him. She's the devil, but she's a great woman and don't ye make any mistake. Harriet Perkins. She's got her under her foot, and I'm sorry for him. No I'm not. I envy him, because he has a grand passion. He knows what he wants. I don't know what I want, and you don't know what you want, Harriet Perkins."

"That's where he's got the pull over us."

"I think I admire you more and more," said Harriet.

"They looked at one another and kept silence for a moment."

"Well," said the baron. "I've lost him. Oh yes! I've lost him."

"And it was your own fault—now wasn't it?" said Harriet persuasively.

"No," growled the baron. "She always meant to go and she always meant him to go too. And if she hadn't found one excuse she'd have found another. And no money could he bought her. That's what she knew she had me. Well, I did the best I could. Couldn't have gone further, could I?"

"Naturally you could."

"How?"

"Didn't I say I wouldn't be your secretary, but I'd help you if you needed it? And you didn't ask me, and yet you say you couldn't have gone further?"

"Ye couldn't have helped me, vench."

"Supposing you'd ask me to be housekeeper here instead of Mrs. Bumpton; I'm a very good housekeeper—at least, I used to be at home. And I'm never seasick. I could have worked with Bumpton. Who couldn't? Mrs. B. could have lived on board like a lady in her own part of the yacht. And I should have had some work to live for. I haven't any aprons here, but you could have wirelessed to Rome for a selection of aprons and had them sent down in three motorcars, according to your usual practice with fallies."

"She'd never have agreed."

"Yes she would."

"How do ye know?"

"Because she'd have loved to stand by and see me make a mess of her job. Not that I should have made a mess of it. She'd have glared at me and never said a word. But what things she's said to Bumpton every night! What a time she'd have had! So don't tell me she wouldn't have helped me. If you do, you might as well admit you don't understand women. And I should like you to understand women. It would be such a nice change for you, and you'd be the first man that ever did."

She smiled. He smiled. They looked at one another again, silently, and grew into brother and sister, and the sister was the elder of the two.

"I wonder!" the baron murmured, almost humbly, as he reflected upon the possibilities of sister's ingenious scheme.

Harriet could see in his eyes the resurrected hope of retaining the precious Bumpton; and it was a sweet spectacle to her, and she was proud of herself.

"I'd like to see ye housekeeping," the baron said appreciatively.

"I'm sure you would! and, you know, you wouldn't have to be confidential with me."

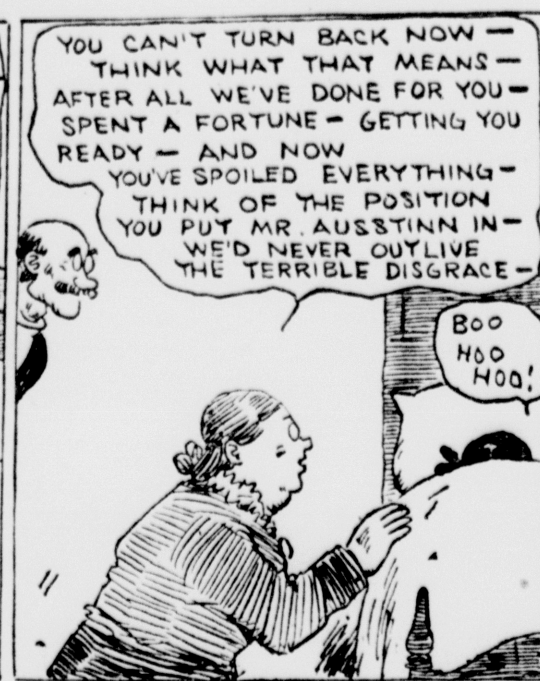

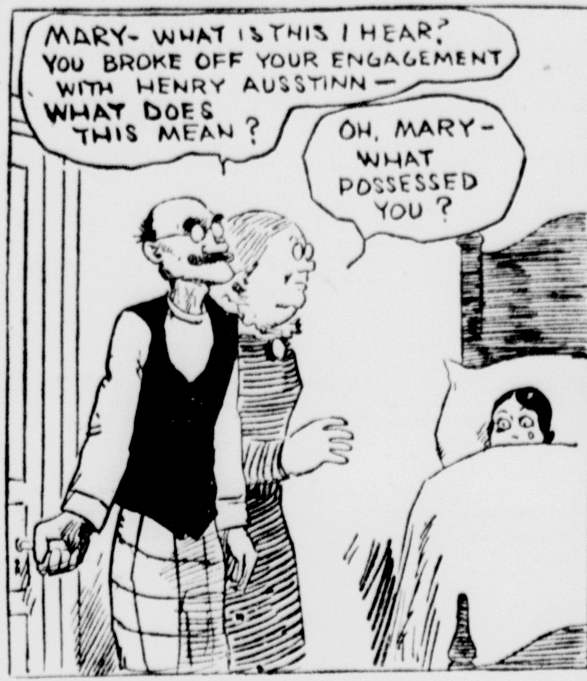

The Ank.

The baron jumped up and rang the bell. A steward, an ordinary, nameless steward, responded.

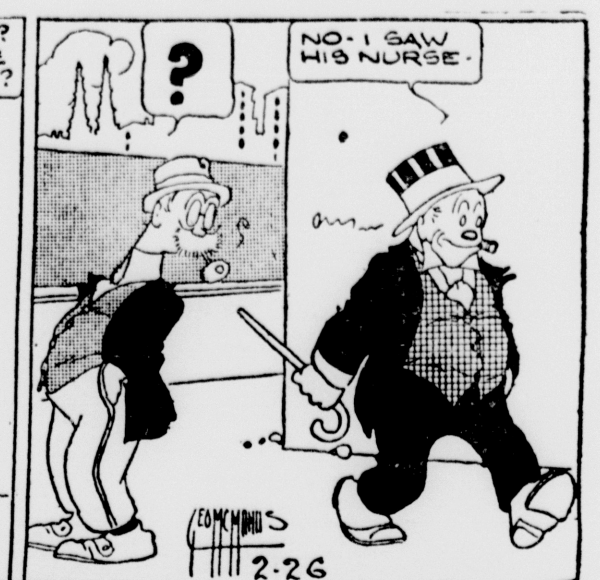

"That bell was for Bumpton," said His Lordship curtly. "Ye know that."

LOWER WICKETS AT DAM 8 AS RIVER RISES

Lock Tenders Act as Rains Increase Stage.

STEEL SHIPPED

Jones & Laughlin Corporation to Double Service.

The wickets at Dam No. 8 were lowered last night because of the sudden rise in the river. Heavy rains at the headwaters have swollen the stream.

The wickets at Dams 9, 11, 12 and 13 held fast when the lock tenders tried to lower them. This will hamper traffic because the stage is too high for the boats to pass through the locks and the wickets would snag the bottoms of the boats should they try to pass over them.

The steamer Inland passed here this morning, bound for Wheeling, W. Va., with five barges and three empties. The steamer Ranger is enroute to Pittsburgh today with seven empty barges from Weirton, W. Va. The steamer Liberty is due here tonight from Wheeling, W. Va.

Two Tows Monthly.

Development and growth of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation's business in the South and Southwest through establishment of a river-rail system in 1921 for the delivery of their steel products progressed to such a point where it becomes necessary to double the service, according to information received today from an official of the corporation.

Hitherto one tow of steel barges loaded with steel products left the plants of the concern in Pittsburgh each month, but starting today two tows a month will go south on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers for distribution to interior points by rail from the warehouses of the corporation at Cincinnati and Memphis, as well as from St. Louis, New Orleans and other river ports.

Each tow will consist of 10 modern steel barges, with approximately 10,000 tons in each tow. This service has been placed on a schedule, leaving the Pittsburgh harbor on the tenth and twenty-fifth of each month, making a total of 24 tows instead of 12 tows annually. The practical completion of the canalization of the Ohio river system of locks and dams makes this schedule feasible it was stated.

Will Build Towing Fleet.

Pending the enlargement of the existing fleet of the Vesta Coal company, subsidiary of the Jones &

Laughlin Steel corporation, which handles the latter's river service, by the construction of several towboats and a fleet of barges, this year a temporary arrangement has been made with the Union Barge Line Corporation to handle the enlarged Jones & Laughlin service out of Pittsburgh.

The first movement under this arrangement will leave the Allegheny works of the corporation this morning in tow of the steamer Sam Craig of the Union Line. This tow will consist of 10 box and gondola barges loaded with steel pipe for the Jones & Laughlin warehouse in Memphis, for distribution into the Southern, Western and Southwestern oil fields, as well as several barges of other products of the corporation for distribution out of their warehouses in Cincinnati, Louisville, Evansville and New Orleans.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation is a pioneer in the development of downriver steel delivery, having started it in 1921. At first it was possible to send out eight or nine tows annually on account of the uncompleted part of the river, subsequently the service grew to a tow each month with extra shipments made by outside power.

Assist in Marine Parade.

The completion of the canalization of the Ohio river this year by the Corps of Engineers is assured and the business interests of the Ohio Valley are preparing to celebrate the occasion in a proper manner with a marine parade from Pittsburgh to the mouth of the Ohio, to which President-elect Herbert Hoover has been invited. The decision of the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation to double its service gives additional proof of the value of the rivers to the Pittsburgh district as a security that the center of the steel industry will remain at the junction of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers.
